How Disha is shaping dreams...

Indian women are skilled in the art of stitching. They are stitching fabrics for generations, and their skill is a source of pride for them.

However, despite their talents, these women struggle to make ends meet. It is difficult for them to earn a stable income that could meet their needs and those of their families. Many of them had to rely on their husbands' meager incomes to survive, which made them feel helpless and dependent.

At Disha, we realized that they could use their talent to make handmade cotton tote bags that could be sold in the market. So we motivated them and started finding potential customers for them, to promote their hard work and to make their talents into earning skills

The moment we gave them orders, they have started working tirelessly stitching the cotton fabric into beautiful tote bags. Each bag is unique, with its own design and color scheme. They poured their hearts and souls into their work, and the bags are a true reflection of their skill and creativity

As word spread about the handmade cotton tote bags through Disha, we saw the growth in demand as well. More and more people are wanting to buy the bags, support the cause. Now these women are able to earn a stable income for the first time in their lives. They are able to provide for their families, pay for their children's education, and even save some money for emergencies.

The success of the handmade cotton tote bags not only transformed the lives of the women in the village but also brought a sense of pride and joy to the entire community. They had proved that their skill and hard work were not in vain and that they could create something beautiful and useful that people valued.

So this is how at Disha, we are shaping dreams !
